Waveland included among defendants in railroad lawsuit

BY DENA BISNETTE

The City of Waveland is using radar speed detectors and has asked for a congressman's help in protesting a proposed increase in the speed of trains passing through the city.

Mayor John Longo Jr. said Friday he had contacted Congressman Trent Lott's office for help after learning that CSX Transportation, Inc., a firm that runs more than 70 freight trains per week between New Orleans, La., and Mobile, Ala., had filed a federal lawsuit asking for a speed increase.

Longo said a specific area of concern would be the possibility the increased speed of trains would contribute to accidents, particularly near Elwood Bourgeois Memorial Park at the intersection of Waveland and Central avenues.

The park includes a ballfield, playground and other facilities largely used by children, he said.

The city currently has an ordinance limiting trains to 35 m.p.h. when passing through Waveland, the highest limits allowed by any of the municipalities named as defendants in the suit.

In addition to Waveland, those defendants include Jackson County, Pass Christian, Long Beach, Gulfport, Pascagoula, Ocean Springs and Biloxi.

Bay St. Louis and Hancock County are not listed.

According to Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr., that city has not had a railroad speed limit since 1965, which he said is probably the reason Bay St. Louis was not included.

He said the city had included a speed limit in the original 1869 ordinance that allowed trains to pass through Bay St. Louis, and that the limit was inadvertently repealed when that old law was taken off the books.

The Waveland Board of Aldermen first became aware that the trains might run faster at its May 5 meeting, when CSX Mobile District Manager Dewey Moseley and attorney Raymond Brown asked the board to repeal its local ordinance establishing a 35 m.p.h. speed.

Brown said at the time that the railroad feels a higher speed, probably 50 m.p.h., is safer and more efficient.

The aldermen protested the proposal and refused to repeal the local ordinance, and the city was added to the defendants in an amended version of the complaint filed May 3 in U.S. Southern District Court in Biloxi.

Brown had stated at the meeting that the railroad officials believe any federal laws governing train speeds would supersede local laws, based on the outcome of prior litigation initiated when Jackson County placed a five m.p.h. limit on a 10-mile section of track outside Pascagoula.

CSX maintains in the suit that a five m.p.h. speed limit would cost increases in expense, delays of 20 hours per day in the 70 weekly freight trains passing between Mobile and New Orleans, increase fuel costs and delay or prohibit interchanges between cars in both cities. The railroad maintains the nature of the braking system on its trains makes derailments less likely to occur during sudden stops at higher speeds.

Higher speeds also render collisions with automobiles less likely because drivers will be less inclined to "try to beat the train" if it is going

Supervisors vote to transfer grant funds to Waveland pier project

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

State officials are expected to visit Hancock County Monday to examine the possibility of allowing a transfer of grant funds from the county to Waveland for its pier construction project.

Board of Supervisors President A. A. Kellar told board members Thursday in their meeting, the county will not be able to use the $45,000 grant as planned for beach development and pier construction at Buccaneer State Park.

Kellar reported James Graves, of the Mississippi Department of Natural Resources, had said the grant could not be used on the beach at Buccaneer because the park is on leased land.

Following Kellar's announcement, Waveland Mayor John Longo asked the board to consider allowing the money to be used in conjunction with a three-phase pier project at the Garfield Ladner Memorial Pier at the end of Terrace Avenue in Waveland.

Longo told the board the $200,000 pier project included the construction of a wood pier out to the channel as well as other development such as parking areas near the beach.

In a following discussion the supervisors briefly considered allowing the grant funds to be used for additional pier construction in Bay St. Louis, but Longo reminded them there are already three piers in Bay St. Louis.

Kellar told the board Graves had specifically mentioned the Garfield Ladner pier as an alternative site where the grant funds could be used.

Longo also told the board, the city of Waveland would supply the $45,000 matching funds required in the grant.

The board voted unanimously to allow the grant funds to be used for the Waveland pier, if state officials approved.

Also during the meeting, Longo was critical of comments by Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz regarding the Waveland Regional Wastewater District as reported in recent newspaper articles.

The wastewater district is not the cause of Bay St. Louis' financial problems, he added.

"In 1975 Bay St. Louis could have gotten a free sewage system, but city officials continuously turned it down," Longo said.

"I've been in politics for 25 years now, and have never been blamed for anyone else running out of money," he added.

Ingalls lands major destroyer contract

PASCAGOULA—The U.S. Navy reports that Ingalls Shipbuilding division of Litton has won a major competition to participate in building the Arleigh Burke (DDG 51) Class of Aegis guided missile destroyers.

With this announcement, Ingalls was awarded a $162 million contract to build DDG 52, the second ship in the program that will involve the construction of as many as 29 Aegis destroyers during the next decade.

Ingalls will be in competition for follow ships throughout the program. Three, perhaps more, Aegis destroyers are planned for each of the Navy's fiscal year budgets beginning in 1989.

"This contract is tangible evidence that the course set for our shipyard over the past several years has been followed successfully," Ingalls President Jerry St. Pe said following the contract announcement.

"We've had three primary goals during the past several years," St. Pe said, "to win a majority of the remaining Aegis guided missile cruisers available for competition; to win the follow ships of the Wasp (LHD 1) Class; and to be the Navy's second source for Aegis destroyers.

"We have now been successful in all three areas—demonstrating that our employees know, and are prepared to do what is necessary to prevail in the highly competitive Navy shipbuilding market place. The credit for our success is shared by our entire work force, the Union leadership and our management team," St. Pe said.

The DDG 51 destroyers will be 504 feet long, with a beam of 59 feet. With a designed displacement of 8,400 tons, each ship will be powered by four gas turbine jet engines developing 100,000 total shaft horsepower. The new destroyers will achieve speeds in excess of 30 knots.

Equipped with an advanced Aegis Combat System, including the AN/SPY 3D phased array radar, the ship will be able to "keep in all directions" simultaneously—identifying, tracking and firing against multiple targets.

Longo believes the supervisors are "too fair" to consider an appeal to make a change in representation on the wastewater board.

Supervisor Sam Pernicaro said the board had a lot of confidence in Kellar as its representative on the wastewater board and did not plan to make a change.

"If the pressure continues, I think you should file for redistricting," Longo said.

The representative structure of the district is fair now and everything is going good, he said.

"Management of the Waveland Regional Wastewater District is rated No. 1 in the southeastern United States by the Environmental Protection Agency," Longo said.

For this outstanding management, total administrative costs including salaries is less than $60,000 and the director of the Harrison County wastewater district alone has a salary of $75,000, he continued.

During the meeting the board heard from county resident Ruehanah Wells, who believes the unit system is just not working.

Wells said she has begged and pleaded but still can't get the road near her home repaired, get road signs installed or get the ditches cleaned.

"The mailman was threatening to quit delivering mail to us and finally a load of dirt was put on the road but it needs to be built up because the tide comes over the road," she added.

Another resident then spoke up in support of the unit system, saying the problem was caused by the lack of support by the supervisors.

"I don't think the supervisors are cooperating 100 percent and believe if they would stand behind the unit system it would work," according to William A. Aicklen.

Supervisor Bert Courge said it is going to take more time for the unit system to work.

Supervisor James Travira told Wells a work order to repair the road near her house had already been submitted but part of the problem with maintenance is because the road is in a marshy area and because of the large trucks that travelled in the area.

In other business at the meeting the board:

Received a report from Edward

Murtagh, county assessor and tax collector, that there may be forthcoming lawsuits against the county filed by residents who want to get second home taxes assessed at 10 percent instead of 15 percent. Murtagh told the board all second homes are currently assessed at 15 percent and to change this procedure would seriously erode the county's tax base.

—Took under advisement a $4,200 bid price from Ronald Ladner on a 20-foot dump trailer.

—Took under advisement bids for equipment for the Kiln Water Department from North Alabama Fire Equipment Company of Decatur, Ala.; Southern Fire Equipment Company of Jackson and Day Fire Equipment of Clarksdale.

—Voted to pay the lowest of three estimates for repairs to a private vehicle caused when the brake went out on a county truck. The estimates ranged from $1,045 to $1,457.

—Heard a recommendation from Ann Whiddon for a member of the new county sewer district board. The supervisors agreed to further discuss the board at their next meeting.

—Scheduled its annual tour of all county roads June 8-9.

The board's next meeting will be 9 a.m. Monday at the county courthouse.

Catahoula man injured, son arrested, charged

BY DENA BISNETTE
A Catahoula man has been hospitalized and his son arrested following a stabbing incident Saturday morning.

According to Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Delbert Seay, the charge against the younger man, Chris Whitfield, is currently aggravated assault. Bond had not been set Saturday morning.

The charge could be changed based on the result of injuries to Dale Whitfield, who was taken to Crosby Memorial Hospital in Picayune after the incident, then transferred to a Hattiesburg hospital.

Seay stated that the elder Whitfield's condition remained unknown Saturday.

The investigator stated the incident apparently happened at about 1:30 a.m. near to Catahoula Grocery on Highway 43. When Deputy Albert Biehl arrived, Dale Whitfield was already enroute to Picayune.

The investigator said the man had allegedly been stabbed by Chris Whitfield during some type of family altercation.

Shoreline man charged in burglary

BY DENA BISNETTE
A Shoreline Park man has been arrested in connection with a Saturday burglary at Garcia's Grocery in Clermont Harbor.

According to Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Delbert Seay, James Schwartz of Tigris Street has been charged with burglary of a business and jailed on $5,000 bond.

Seay stated that Schwartz was arrested by Deputy D.K. Watson after Watson responded to a 5:20 a.m. call regarding an alarm that had sounded at the grocery store.

Watson was assisted by Waveland Police Officer Brett Ladner, who was passing the store on his way to work, the investigator added.

A window had been broken for entry into the store. The alarm involved was the type set off by movement of a person inside the building, Seay added.

Bay St. Louis, Waveland and county officials begin new effort to work together

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
At a meeting Thursday representatives of all government bodies in the county agreed they must begin working together for the good of the county.

"We all have problems but we need to work together and quit butting heads," A. A. Kellar, president of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors said.

"What's going on now is not doing any of us any good. We need to change our attitude and direction," Kellar continued.

Kellar's comments were generated by recent tension expressed in a supervisors meeting between the various board members and increasing problems between the representatives on the Waveland Regional Wastewater District.

In discussing a proposed Bay St. Louis utility rate increase, Mayor Victor Frankiewicz has described one of the major causes of this increase as wastewater district costs.

Frankiewicz cited "low quality engineering and needless construction of costly facilities and operational frills unnecessary for a sewer district" as one reason for the high costs.

However, Waveland Mayor John Longo, chairman of the wastewater board, defends the wastewater district and claims it is not Bay St. Louis' problem.

In the meeting, officials extensively discussed these problems and agreed to "put all of this behind" them.

"Wastewater districts costs are water under the bridge now and we have to pay them so we must join together to figure ways to keep them from going up even further," Frankiewicz said.

Also in the meeting, the group jointly agreed to request Congressman Trent Lott to help prevent the railroad speed limit in the county from being raised to 60 miles per hour and to seek more information about getting a test project for oyster purification located in the county.

Thank you — on behalf of the board of trustees of the Bay St. Louis school system, I respectfully extend the following to the citizens of area: thank each of you very much for the unselfish support of your public school system proposed building program.

County schools superintendent seeking reelection

Terrell Randolph is seeking reelection as superintendent of education in Hancock County.

Randolph, a Democrat who first took office in 1976 and served as superintendent until 1980, was elected to a second term in 1983.

"The Education Reform Act passed by the legislature in 1982 mandated public kindergartens, compulsory attendance, personnel appraisal, a teacher assistant program and competency testing for high school seniors. As superintendent it has been my duty to implement the many programs required by the Reform Act," Randolph said.

"The act has been a tremendous step toward improving public education for our children. I am convinced that the next four years are the most critical and strong leadership will be needed, he continued.

"The task of implementing provisions of the act is not complete. Our district will be involved in performance-based accreditation and the development of a district five-year plan," stated Randolph.

A graduate of Bay Senior High School, Randolph received a bachelor of science degree in secondary education from the University of Southern Mississippi and a master of science degree in school administration and supervision from Mississippi College.

He has 20 years experience as an educator, including four years as a teacher-coach at Hancock North Central High School and nine years as Hancock County superintendent of education.

"Four years ago I promised to implement the use of computers in the instructional program. We now have the best computer-assisted instructional program in the state," he stated.

"Hancock County School System is the first and only system in Mississippi to offer an audio curriculum of basic skills delivered to the pupils at home through the use of touch tone telephones. Pupils answer the mathematics and reading computer questions by pressing the telephone keyboard. Their responses are stored in memory for teachers to utilize in determining pupils' progress," Randolph explained.

"Four years ago I promised to upgrade the district's transportation program. We have purchased 20 new school buses for our children during this four-year period," he continued. Randolph is a member of the American Association of School Administrators, the Mississippi Association of School Superintendents and the Mississippi Association of School Administrators.

WLOX-TV reports weathercaster changes

WLOX-TV news director Dave Vincent reports addition of weathercaster Frank Billingsley to the Newswatch 13 team.

Billingsley will replace meteorologist Joe Lizura, who has since joined the ABC affiliate in Sacramento, Calif.

Billingsley comes to WLOX-TV from WDBJ-TV in Roanoke, Va. where he's worked as weekend and noon weathercaster. The Washington and Lee University graduate grew up in Birmingham, Ala.

"It's nice to get back to the southeast," says Billingsley. "I'm excited about being on the Gulf Coast. I'm looking forward to getting to know the people of South Mississippi."

Billingsley has fond memories of summer vacations spent on the Coast and enjoys living near the water. "I've lived in the beautiful Blue Ridge Mountains in Virginia for the past nine years between school and work and I've decided, if you can't live near the mountains, you better live near the water. Everything else is boring," says Billingsley.

The 26-year-old weathercaster covered Hurricane Gloria in 1985 on the Virginia coast. "Hurricanes are not unfamiliar territory to me. I don't like them, but I look forward to the challenge of covering that type of weather system."

Vincent says Billingsley will join the Newswatch team beginning the week of June 1.

Drug charge lodged against Hancock inmate

Ricky Stoufflet, 30, of Shoreline Park, a prisoner at the Hancock County Jail, was charged Thursday with selling marijuana to a fellow prisoner.

Stoufflet has been serving sentences from Waveland City Court and Hancock County Justice Court for failure to pay fines imposed for driving under the influence of alcohol.

Waveland City Court imposed a 33-day sentence on April 23 for failure to pay a $1,000 fine and court costs, ordered after Stoufflet was found guilty of his fifth offense.

In Justice Court, he was sentenced on April 20 to serve 30 days for failure to make agreed-upon payments of a $619.50 fine imposed for his fourth offense in November 1985.

The new felony charge against Stoufflet was filed by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department after he was accused of the sale of a controlled substance, according to investigator Glen Strong.

"Someone probably smuggled the marijuana in to him," Strong said.

The Mississippi Gulf Coast Economic Development Commissions' efforts in bringing a group of Japanese businessmen to the coastal counties this past week is a big step in securing possible jobs for the area.

The Mississippi Gulf Coast's three counties being offered as a package for prospective industries is really a great undertaking.

The three counties being so diversified gives prospective industry leaders a great variety to consider for new locations.

Our Hancock County Port and Harbor director and commission members are to be commended on their efforts during the Japanese business representatives' visit to Hancock County on Wednesday.

Several local businessmen and NSTL officials also did a fantastic job in promoting our area of the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

The local tour involved many hours of planning on Port and Harbor Commission members.

On Friday Dr. Tomas Flores, MD was named 'Doctor of the Year' by the Joppa Temple of Gulfport.

Dr. Flores, a staff physician at Hancock Medical Center was recognized for his charity work done for crippled children by the Shriners.

The presentation was made by Potentate John Topp of the Joppa Temple.

The Shriners have helped several children from Hancock County with serious injuries or burns in the past few years.

Archie Courge, a resident of Hancock County and member of the Joppa Temple is involved in the Shriner's crippled children and burn centers programs.

At the surprise presentation on Friday, members of the hospital board, administration, nursing staff, board of supervisors and friends of Dr. Flores were on hand. A reception followed.

We wish to offer our congratulations to Dr. Flores.

Hurricane season begins this week

Hurricane season begins this week and now is the time to prepare before an actual hurricane threatens.

Each person has special needs, such as medicines and prescription glasses, but also a general list to have on hand includes a supply of non-perishable foods, first aid kit, a fire extinguisher, a battery powered commercial and NOAA weather radio, a flashlight and extra batteries.

The most dangerous element in a hurricane is the accompanying high tides and rough seas as the storm moves inland. Tides from 3 to 10 feet above normal are common, but can be much higher. If you live in a coastal area, have a safe evacuation route planned ahead of time. Get information planning in your area by contacting your local Civil Defense agency.

Hurricanes can cause extensive flooding, not just along the coastline, but far inland also. Flood insurance provides valuable financial protection. You should be aware, though, that your homeowners policy does not cover damage from flooding. Check into the availability of flood insurance through the National Flood Insurance Program by contacting your local insurance agent.

Hurricane watches, warnings and advisories are issued by the National Hurricane Center in Miami, Fla.

A hurricane watch means a hurricane has become a threat to coastal areas and is usually issued 24 to 48 hours before expected landfall. Everyone covered by a watch should listen for more advisories and act promptly if a warning is issued.

A hurricane warning indicates hurricane winds greater than 74 miles an hour and high and rough seas are expected in a specific coastal area within 24 hours. Precautionary actions should begin immediately.

Sport, commercial fishing important in all our lives

Representative Frank Patti of Louisiana, chairman of the Gulf States Marine Fisheries Commission for 1987, announces the observance of National Fishing Week June 1-7.

This is an important event which points to the impact which recreational and commercial fisheries have on our nation's economy and life style.

It also provides us with the opportunity to stress the importance of the Gulf of Mexico in the overall picture.

The total commercial harvest in the U.S. in 1982 was 6.4 billion pounds with a price paid to the fishermen of $2.4 billion.

The five states bordering on the Gulf or Mexico produced 37 percent (2.4 billion pounds) of that volume and accounted for 26 percent ($616 million) of the value of those landings.

Included in those landings are shrimp, which is the most valuable fishery in the nation, and menhaden, which is the largest volume fishery in the nation.

In 1980, the total number of recreational fishing trips taken was around 86 million. The Gulf of Mexico accounted for 24 million of those trips, valued at $2.2 billion, approximately 33 percent of the value of recreational fishing nationwide.

Recent data indicate that per capita consumption of fishery products has increased at a rate of about 2.5 percent per year since 1960, indicating the current public awareness of the health benefits and versatility of fishery products.

Likewise, involvement in recreational fishing has increased continuously during that period. Ever increasing demands are being placed on our natural resources and the environment in which they are found, and it is particularly fitting that we take time out during National Fishing Week to consider the importance of recreational and commercial fishing in all our lives.

North Bay's Frontier Days event reflects student excellence

May 28, 1987
Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Gentlemen:

Friday, May 22 I participated in North Bay Elementary School's Frontier Days. Mrs. Terry Brown, kindergarten teacher, had organized a display of many of the crafts that were a way of life in times past and many of which continue today to be part of our culture. It was a wonderful occasion.

I would like to commend Principal Roger James, Mrs. Terry Brown, all the teachers, staff, parents, etc. who combined their talents and efforts to make the day such a success. I know, every effort was made to accommodate us participants.

I believe that this state will never advance until all our school systems have the vision that excellence can be achieved by all our children.

Editor,

Recently, due to a severe illness I was admitted to the new Hancock Medical Center. I was so impressed with the personnel that I'd like to publicly commend the following:

—Dr. Irene Koskan and her nurse Sharon.

—Nurse Robin and all the nurses

Bay St. Louis

To the Editor and the people of Hancock County:

Last night my dear uncle went home, not to the quiet little town that he grew up in and in time became a gentle old man who was kind and loving to his family and all who knew him.

Sure, he had seen his four score and ten and if he hadn't been so trusting the day he let two men into his home to supposedly check for faulty wiring he may have lived a little longer.

It is quite gratifying to know that the Bay-Waveland School System does have this vision as exemplified by the activities last Friday.

I was most impressed that the president of the school board, superintendent of schools, mayor of Bay St. Louis, county officials, newspaper reporters, mothers, and fathers among others chose to attend.

Above all, the vision of excellence showed in the demeanor of the teachers and their delightful students.

It is going to be so exciting to see the achievements of these young people in the years to come. We have so much for which to be proud!

Very truly yours, should agree that the peak of the evening came upon the entrance of the Bay Senior High Band in their new uniforms.

It was obvious that all of these students have worked hard to achieve excellence through the determination and guidance of their band director, Miss Lana Kay Jones.

Thanks to Miss Jones for instilling fresh and new pride into the Bay High Tiger Pride Band.

Good luck,

—The lovely lady who comforted and prayed for me when I was so nauseated.

Bay St. Louis

So I guess what I'm trying to say is, I still feel that even though he died in vain, leaving a wife of many years who depended on him for so many of life's everyday needs, and family who knew he was always there for us, he also left the two men who beat him and his wife, took their life savings and left them there to die.

I know if he could have ever seen them again he would have forgiven them.

The thing is—I can't!

SENATOR SAYS U.S. AGRICULTURE MUST HAVE OPPORTUNITY, FINANCIAL SUPPORT

Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.) says American agriculture must have the opportunity to compete in world markets under fair trade rules.

"Our trade deficit is intolerable and must be addressed early in this Congress."

"The government must do a better job taking up for our exporters in the international market," the Senator said here Friday afternoon.

Senator Cochran, a member of the Senate Appropriations and Agriculture Committees, addressed the annual meeting of the Mississippi Soybean Association.

He acknowledged that farmers, and Mississippi soybean producers in particular, have suffered severe economic hardship in recent years, but said "I am optimistic about the future of American agriculture."

He said he believed that although "agriculture's transition from a domestic to an international industry is a rough and rocky road," that profitability will return.

"We must produce for and retain our export markets," Senator Cochran told the farm group. "We must also explore, through research, methods of achieving greater efficiencies in the production of soybeans and utilize innovative marketing techniques to increase sales."

Senator Cochran said, "Agriculture research must concentrate on improving net income by reducing input costs and increasing yields per acre."

The Senator also pledged to continue to work for adequate farm price supports and better interest rates for farm credit system borrowers.

He concluded by urging Mississippi soybean producers to unify in their recommendations to Congress for legislation affecting their industry.

Lang said both Concerned Citizens and the Hancock Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has been trying for several years to have a member of the black community appointed to the hospital board.

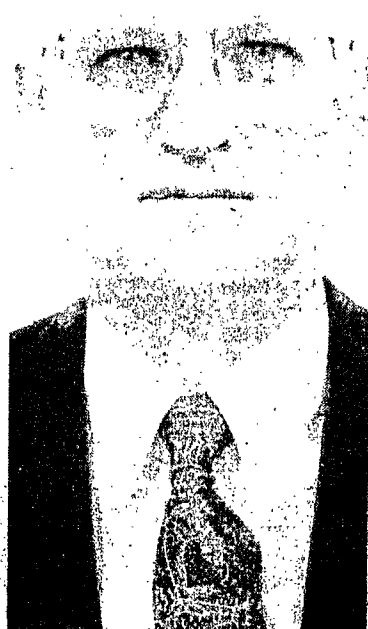

Lang's most recent appearance before the supervisors a few weeks ago resulted in a resolution by the board to appoint a black member as soon as possible.

"I believe Mr. Tate is well-qualified to work with the board and am very pleased with the appointment," she said.

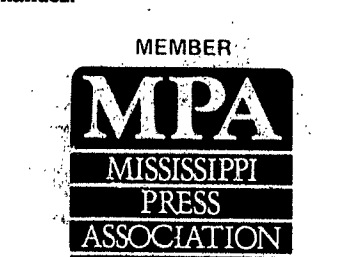

"We really do appreciate the supervisors for taking this action and thankful for the appointment of Mr. Tate," Lang continued.

Also at the meeting, the supervisors appointed Dr. Joseph Lee and reappointed the Rev. Charles Johnson to the hospital board.

Other members of the board are Robert Baxter, Perry Gibson, David Peranich and Brother Martin Hernandez.

Dr. Mancuso to retire after 50-year career

BY DENA BISNETTE
After 51 years of medical practice, Dr. Bruno Mancuso of Waveland is retiring.

He has set the date of his retirement as June 1.

Mancuso has been on staff at Mercy Hospital in New Orleans, La., since 1936, serving patients with residences scattered from New Orleans to the Bay St. Louis-Waveland and Picayune areas.

"I'm in family practice," Mancuso said. "That's the skin and its contents, as we used to say."

Mancuso is a native of Newark, N.J., who came south to attend Tulane University Medical School in the middle of the Great Depression.

"When I was ready to go to school, finances were my problem. My father was a barber, so I stayed out a year and worked doing that," the doctor said.

"I had a high school friend who went to Tulane. It was $600 for tuition up there, but it was $150 at Tulane. Board ran from about $60 to $25. The only other school I could have gone to at that time was Alabama."

After graduating Tulane in 1936, Mancuso served an internship at Montelepre Hospital, a private hospital on Canal Street.

The pace of life in New Orleans as compared to that in Newark led Mancuso to make the southern city his home.

"When I came down here, I had been brought up in a big city environment that at the time was not good. There was a lot of influence from the Mafia in my area; Newark was a bad city for this. To me, New Orleans was a little old town," Mancuso said.

"My grandfather told me I was crazy to go down there. He said, 'They've got yellow fever down there.'"

"I told him the yellow fever epidemic happened in 1900, but it was the only thing he could think of to say."

"I liked the slow life, the way people weren't living on top of each other. I loved it when I got down here, the peace, the atmosphere and the streetcars, so I decided to stay."

Mancuso lived in New Orleans until moving to Waveland about four years ago with his wife Helen and their son Michael, now eight, who attends Coast Episcopal School.

"Medicine has changed a great deal. In those days when I started, we would do almost anything," the doctor said.

He said many doctors now are reluctant to work outside their specialty areas because lawsuits are much more prevalent than they were 50 years ago.

"I've had 51 years with no lawsuits. I'm very proud of that," Mancuso added.

"If you control your conscience and do what you think is necessary, you'll feel happy with it," he said of the medical profession.

"My family helps. You have to neglect your family to do your job conscientiously."

Mancuso plans to use his retirement to devote more time to his family.

"My son plays both soccer and baseball. I'll probably spend a lot of time going to practice and games. I already do."

"I feel I have accomplished my basic aim. When I was a little boy all I wanted to be was a doctor. I would like to continue to do things that before I couldn't do because my whole life was medicine."

The doctor has been gradually reducing the number of patients he sees in preparation for his retirement. Those he has left are mostly people who have come to him for about 40 or 50 years.

"The kind of patients I have, I have had them so long I have friends. I have had them so long I can tell them, 'Look,' and they listen. They know you're trying to tell them something good for them," Mancuso said.

"That's why I hate to leave them, but what can I do? Like I told them, nothing goes on forever."

He has numerous stories to tell about how patients have treated him as a friend, telling him about their family problems or bringing him produce from their gardens.

One incident Mancuso remembers involved a woman who asked him, after he had assisted her, whether he liked chickens. He told her he did, then thought no more about it until she arrived at his office about a week later with several live chickens to give him.

Mancuso's practice has suffered some interruptions, the longest of which was four years during World War II while he followed infantry soldiers with a U.S. Army evacuation hospital in Australia, New Guinea and Japan.

"We used to set up a tent and work out of the same. We had some strange things happen to us," the doctor said.

On one occasion, Mancuso's unit was dropped off on a small New Guinea island with three weeks' supplies. The supplies, left on the beach, were spotted and destroyed by a Japanese airplane and the soldiers had to eat what they could find.

"I got involved in tropical medicine. Of course, we had malaria, which was endemic, and we had an epidemic of a fever caused by rats. I don't remember what the disease was called, but there was no treatment for it," he said.

The doctors tried to combat the fever by treating its symptoms. Mancuso did the same as the other doctors with one exception.

"I prescribed an ounce of whiskey in the morning for each of my patients, and most of them listened to me," he said, explaining that while the whiskey had some medicinal value, it also contributed to the soldiers' recovery through its psychological value.

A briefer interruption occurred during Hurricane Betsy, when Man-cuso was trapped in the second floor of his residence by high water.

"I remember it. I had played golf the day the storm hit," he said, adding that he and his golfing companions had decided not to play bingo after their game as they usually did and that his wife told him the storm was coming when he returned home. "My office was in the ninth ward. I had four feet of water in there and couldn't work for about a week."

Mancuso has managed some time for other activities during his long practice, including membership in American Legion Post 77 in Waveland; Krewe of Snow, for which was named king this year; and Waveland Civic Association.

His professional memberships include Orleans Parish Medical Society, Louisiana State Medical Society and Southern Medical Society.

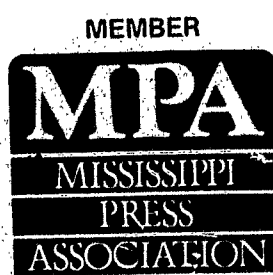

Retirement plans in addition to spending more time with his family include gardening, bowling, traveling, and trying two new things, fishing and crabbing.

ROSES decorate the front of the home of Dr. and Mrs. Bruno Mancuso in Waveland. Mancuso, who will retire from his medical practice at the beginning of June, considers gardening one of his hobbies but gives credit for growing the roses to his father-in-law. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

GARDENING—Dr. Bruno Mancuso checks the growth of a peach on one of several fruit trees surrounding his Waveland residence. Mancuso, who has practiced family medicine in New Orleans for more than 50 years, plans to retire June 1 and devote more time to gardening and other leisure activities. Cook-out season arrives again

MISSISSIPPI STATE—Cook-out season is here again and many Mississippians will be starting up the grill to enjoy outdoor meals.

Nelda U. Starks, a nutrition education specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, provided some ideas on making cook-outs successful.

When using a charcoal grill, to make clean-up easier and to raise the charcoal heat to the desirable height, fill the bowl of the grill with a layer of sand or gravel, then place the charcoal in a cone-shaped pile on this base. It will take about three-fourths pound (12 briquettes) to cook one chicken or two pounds hamburger.

Thoroughly saturate the charcoal with lighter fluid. Do not use kerosene or gasoline. Let the doused charcoal stand for a few minutes before lighting.

Light charcoal and allow coals to glow. When the coals begin to form a gray ash, they are ready for cooking. This will take 10 to 30 minutes.

Keep a sprinkler can or a squeeze bottle filled with water to control blazes and too much heat. Water pistols are also good for this.

Once the coals are ready, it's time to put the food on the grill. Different foods call for different methods and cooking times, she said.

Chicken is a good choice for grilling if you have time—at least an hour and 15 minutes. Halve or quarter the chicken for grilling and remove any extra fat globules.

Rub the pieces with oil and salt both sides or salt the chicken one or two hours before grilling. Place in the refrigerator until ready to cook. Do not add salt to the barbecue sauce if the chicken was salted before cooking.

Place chicken on the grill skin side down and turn every five to seven minutes. It is not necessary to baste the chicken for the first 15 to 20 minutes, Starks said. After this the chicken should be basted often (every five to 10 minutes) with an oil and vinegar base sauce.

"When turning the broilers never use a fork to pierce the halves as this

Garden Guidelines

SPRING GARDENING TIPS

The following are some general tips from American Horticultural Society horticulturists that may help you organize your thoughts and spruce up your garden this spring.

Label Bulbs—If you have ever had problems finding your spring-flowering bulbs late in the season, or you have accidentally damaged them when planting other plants directly over those bulbs that have defoliated, you may appreciate this advice: Label your bulbs now, before they can't be found. Labeling can help you locate where items are in dormant seasons, and makes locating new plants and bulbs a cinch.

Stake Tall Plants—Staking tall plants early in the season will help reduce fungal infections, promote good growth patterns, improve the plant's evapotranspiration rate, and can increase photosynthesis. Evapotranspiration (the loss of water from the soil by evaporation and the emission of watery vapor from the surface of plant parts) is important for maintaining the water balance in the plant; the rate of evapotranspiration determines the rate of water uptake through the roots, which in turn affects the plant's turgidity (rigidity).

Plan Now for Fall Planting—Now that summer is drawing near and you have admired many different spring-flowering bulbs in other gardens, don't forget which flowers caught your eye. Take a moment to make a note on your garden pad or diary to order these bulbs for your garden. Plan to plant them this fall for new and exciting appeal next spring.

Tree Protectors—Use tree protectors (metal or plastic cylinders, or tape) at the base of your young trees to protect them against weed-eater and lawnmower damage. Make sure the protectors allow enough space for the tree to grow—one-half to three-quarters of an inch of play is usually sufficient.

The American Horticultural Society is a non-profit gardening organization for gardeners of all levels of expertise. Membership information may be obtained by writing: AHS, P.O. Box 0105, Mt. Vernon, VA 22121.

This information was excerpted from the American Horticulturalist, publication of the American Horticultural Society.

Everybody's Science

Case of the Killer Plants

By Hubert Kelley

Killer plants? Yes, in a way. But they don't resemble the ravenous man-eater in 'Little Shop of Horrors.' Some of them, in fact, look positively cheerful.

The sunflower is one of them. It manufactures its own herbicides, exuding them in the soil to keep other plants—mostly weeds—from germinating or growing.

Another murderous plant is grain sorghum. Both plants are currently under study at a laboratory of USDA's Agricultural Research Service, in Frederick, Md.

Gardeners and farmers have known for a long time that some plants don't get along well together. Sunflowers, for example, can't be used as poles for beans because beans won't climb them.

Strawberries do well in the residue left from a crop of oats, but carrots do pitifully under the same conditions.

And sorghum keeps a long list of weeds from growing too close to the plant, where they could compete for sunlight and water.

Some of the herbicides generated by plants are so potent that they devastate the plant that manufactures them. Farmers in North Dakota have learned, for example, that they shouldn't plant sunflowers in the same field more than two years in a row. After the first year, the residue of the crop's own herbicide cuts back on their growth.

It takes very little of these chemicals to kill off the competition. Gerald Leather, a U.S. Department of Agriculture weed scientist, says that 20 pounds of sunflowers produced only 50 micrograms of natural herbicide.

That's roughly the same as 100 salt crystals, or less than you could pick up on a damp fingertip.

With such small amounts, Leather can't afford to test his extract on very big plants, so he tries chemicals out on a tiny plant called duckweed, which succumbs easily to poisons. Each duckweed plant in its little dish is about the size of an aspirin tablet.

One important purpose for Leather's research is to find and develop new herbicides that will help control weeds, while keeping the environment safe and healthy for crops—and for animals, songbirds, and people, too.

New look planned for Beachfront Festival

The Beachfront Festival in downtown Bay St. Louis this year will incorporate dramatic changes in both size and scope of the event.

The U.S. Navy Show Band South will kick off the festival Sunday, June 7, with opening ceremonies beginning at 1 p.m.

"An all-afternoon celebration that promises to eclipse most community-sponsored festivals on the Coast is planned," said Ed Jurkowski, president of Bay St. Louis Downtown Merchants Association, sponsors of the festival. Crowds of up to 15,000 persons are expected, he said.

Highlights of this year's festival are the Navy band and a giant bingo game sponsored jointly by the festival and the Krewe of Gemini.

Experimental aircraft will be on display along with antique autos. Several flybys of the experimental aircraft over the festival area are planned.

Exhibitors from the National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County will include Navocean, NASA, Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and others who will present exhibits designed to show the scope and mission of the various organizations at NSTL.

More than 30 handmade arts and crafts exhibitors have already confirmed. Two large flea market areas will be filled by sellers and are expected to be a crowd favorite.

The wares of ethnic food booths along with food and drink offered by local downtown merchants will be available to the public during the afternoon.

Tyson McMahon, festival committeeman, said the festival this year will utilize Main and Court streets along with the beachfront area from De Mottuzin St. to Our Lady of the Gulf Church. The additional space will accommodate unusual military displays from the U.S. Marine Corps and the Navy Seabees.

A Marine 24-ton amphibious assault vehicle will be displayed at the corner of Second and Main streets.

The Seabee exhibit will feature five large pieces of heavy equipment and will be located directly behind the Hancock Bank Building.

At the Courthouse area, the Navy band will perform in addition to a continuing program of free entertainment featuring St. Rose Gospel Singers, Whirlwind Square Dancers, karate demonstrations and kloggers.

On the beachfront itself four live bands—Guitar Bo-Dee Band, Just Country, The Juke Jumpers and Coast to Coast will get down all day.

At 8 a.m. the traditional Bicycle Race Criterium will begin a course in the downtown area. Entrants may contact The Cycle Shop in Bay St. Louis for further details. In addition, a 5K run is planned by the Gulf Coast Running Club.

Bikini Contest will offer a $100 prize and will be held in the beachfront area in mid-afternoon.

The Gulf Coast Amateur Radio Club will demonstrate ham radio with contacts actually being made from all over the world. Information will be provided to persons interested in taking up the ham radio hobby.

Local car dealers plan to exhibit their latest models along Court and Main streets. The Gulf Coast Mustang Club will display vehicles in a special location along the beachfront.

Among festival participants will be WXGR Remote Radio, Shawn's Bait and Tackle Shop, University of Southern Mississippi Division of Lifelong Learning, Naval Institute, Magic Show, Naval Ocean Research Development, Activities, Senior Citizens, Armed Forces recruiters

Gulf South Planning Commission, Shriners, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Hancock Medical Center, 4-H Clubs, County Homemakers Extension, Rescue Squad, Old Bay Photo Displays and the Junior Auxiliary. "This year marks a unique spirit of cooperation and progress for the

City of Bay St. Louis in building a Beachfront Festival that presents an unrivaled afternoon of free entertainment and festivities that may well bring the Bay festival to prominence among the big events along our Gulf Coast," Jurkowski explained.

Point of Law

(Prepared by the Mississippi State Bar. Some rights may vary from locality to locality. Always consult an attorney when in doubt about your legal rights.)

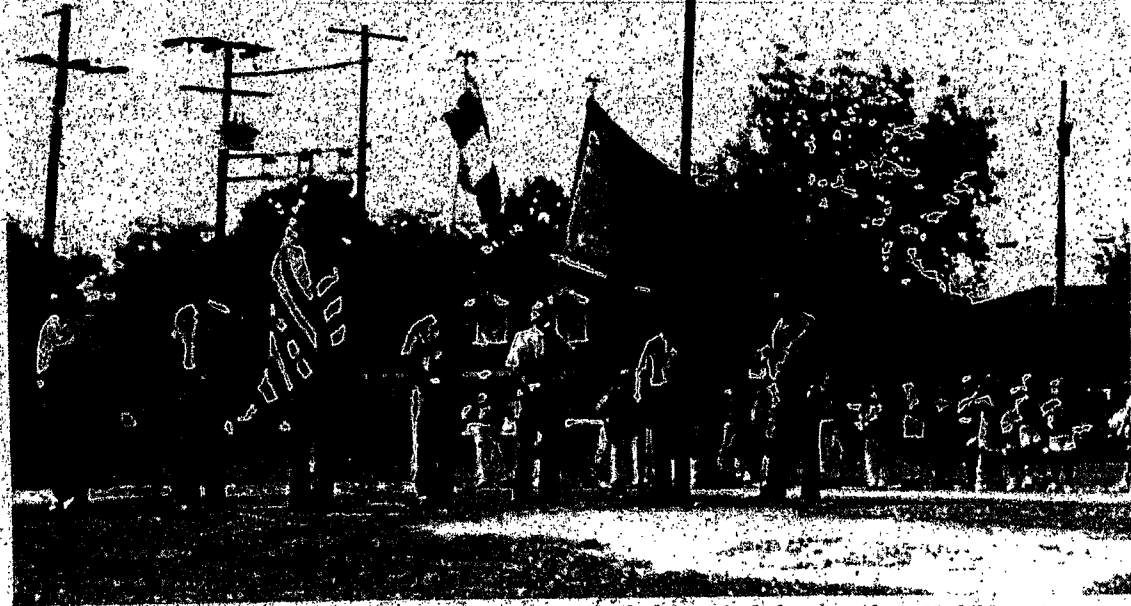

Q: I am legally blind, and since my wife died two years ago, I have lived in a nursing home. I am 79 years old, but my mind is still good. I want to give my old homestead to my daughter and her husband, but I don't want them to sell it. I want to make sure that the old place stays in the family so that my grandchildren and the generations after them will have it to enjoy. How can I do this?

A: Unfortunately, the law will not let you completely restrict the ownership of your property to your family for the unlimited future. Mississippi has abolished perpetual restriction of land ownership, as have most other states. Nevertheless, there are certain things you legally can do to perhaps achieve your purposes, such as giving the property to your daughter for her life only, with the land going to someone else at her death.

To do this would raise other problems, however, so it may or may not be what you want.

In any event, you need to discuss this matter carefully with your lawyer so that he will know your true intentions and will be able to advise you how to best address the situation.

Bay residents, businessmen calmy accept inevitability of utility rate increase

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Presentations on a proposed Bay St. Louis utility rate increase to residents Wednesday in a public hearing and representatives of large commercial establishments Thursday, were mostly accepted quietly.

Approximately 50 residents attended the public hearing where Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz explained the reasons a utility rate increase were necessary.

A few questions were raised as to if there would be a front foot assessment to pay for utility services or if a bond issue would be proposed to pay any of the costs but mostly residents had specific questions on how aspects of the rate increase would be figured into their monthly utility bill.

Frankiewicz said there will be no front foot assessment or bond issue and the increase in rates will provide the necessary funding while equalizing the bills so each user pays their fair share.

"Under the current rates, small users have been bearing too large a share of the burden while the city is losing money on larger commercial users," Frankiewicz said.

"This revision in the utility rate ordinance will also make each utility self-supporting," he said.

Frankiewicz also told the group, the utility rate increases will make Bay St. Louis bills comparable with the current rates of most municipalities on the Gulf Coast.

In the meeting Thursday, about 15 representatives of the city's largest commercial utility customers also received a presentation on the need for the increase and the effect on individual businesses.

Among the questions by these representatives was the possibility of negotiating for lower rates, based on individual situations.

One representative also commented on the businesslike approach by the city in showing utility customers exactly what is happening.

City officials had expected a great deal of protests about the increases and one official stated it was a credit to the people in Bay St. Louis that they realized the increase was necessary.

50 m.p.h. than going five m.p.h., the suit states.

Longo said Waveland officials are particularly worried about the possibility of derailments near the park, which includes a children's playground, baseball field and other facilities.

"I feel very strongly that if they increase the speed from 30 to 60, it's going to increase the possibility of derailments and hazards with pedestrian and vehicular traffic," he said.

"We're starting to ruin the radar by the ballpark because the city can fine the railroad if the trains are going too fast."

"We do not want them going 60 past that ballfield. A derailment at 30, the cars will roll over in the street, but at 60 they could roll over into the ballfield."

He said derailments have already occurred in Clermont Harbor and Bay St. Louis.

Longo said he had contacted Lott's office for help in preventing the trains from going faster if possible.

"Lott's office has assured me they would take it to the federal railroad regulatory agencies and file a complaint against the removal of safety ordinances in cities and towns," the mayor explained.

"It's my understanding this is a test area. It's not national yet," he added.

Frankiewicz, although Bay St. Louis is not a defendant, said he and the city council members are also concerned about the speed limits, which he feels should be restricted to 30 m.p.h.

He said the major area of concern is a section of track from the Bay railroad bridge to Washington Street, located in a particularly congested area.

Teacher hearing set for Tuesday

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District Board has called a special meeting at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday for a teacher nonreemployment hearing.

The teacher involved, band director Lana Jones, took the board to federal court last month to try to obtain a temporary restraining order, denied by Judge Lansing Mitchell.

At that time, Jones was instructed to appeal the nonreemployment decision in a hearing before the school board, for which the band director stated she would request open session.

In hearings the school board has conducted so far, teachers have been given the option of keeping the proceedings open to the public or having the hearing in executive session.

Board Attorney Lucien Gex said that the hearing has been tentatively scheduled several times but has been delayed at the request of Jones' attorney, John Deakle of Hattiesburg.

The Tuesday hearing date was scheduled by Gex and Deakle Friday afternoon.

MR. AND MRS. PHILLIP DOUGLAS SEAL JR.

Seymour-Burrell

Shirley Elizabeth (Beth) Burrell and Stephen Ervin (Steve) Seymour were united in marriage in an evening candlelight ceremony on April 24 at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis with the Reverend Monsignor James McGough officiating. The wedding and reception was Southern in theme, with magnolias, dogwood, and complementary flowers and greenery used in decoration.

Nuptial music was provided by organist, Mrs. John McKenna of Bay St. Louis, and soloist, Mrs. Suzanne Sutherland of Pascagoula.

The bride is the daughter of Shirley and Ode Burrell of Gautier, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Walker of Big Point, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Ode Burrell Sr. of Durant, Miss.

The bridegroom is the son of Mary and Wilmer Seymour of Bay St. Louis and the grandson of Mrs. Jennie Lader of Bay St. Louis and the late Ervin Ladner and Mrs. Blanche Seymour of Ocean Springs and the late Ervin Seymour.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a designer gown of white French silk and imported laces. The fitted bodice which dipped to a V in the front and back, was covered with lace, seed pearls and iridescents, and fashioned a closed princess neckline which created a sheer illusion yoke. The stand-up collar was accented at the throat with dangling pearl and iridescents. Slim, tapered sleeves which came to a point on the hands, were designed with pouts at the shoulders and were overlaid with Brussels lace etched in seed pearls and iridescents. A controlled skirt fell from the fitted bodice into a cathedral-length train. Brussels laces re-embroidered the skirt and was captured in the back and edge of the train which also featured iridescents.

The bride wore a Toque hat of silk illusion adorned with lace, iridescents, white roses and cascades of seed pearls. The back was accented with illusion veiling.

St. John Catholic Church in Lakeshore was the setting for the recent marriage of Michele Ann Moran and Phillip Douglas Seal Jr., both of Bay St. Louis. The Reverend Lambert Stack, officiated at the afternoon double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Thomas J. Moran and Gloria S. Moran, both of Lakeshore. The groom's parents are Phillip D. Seal and Billie Lowery, both of Picayune.

Nuptial music was provided by organist Alfriza Acker and vocalist Cheryl Ward, both of Bay St. Louis.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white matte taffeta with schiffli embroidered bodice, scalloped portrait neckline, and long, tapered sleeves. The basque waistline was outlined with scalloped embroidery over a full circular skirt with chapel-length train. She wore a floral hairpiece interspersed with pearl sprays which held a fingertip veil of illusion.

She carried a cascade of white silk roses, rosebuds, stephanotis and plumosa fern with gypsophila and satin streamers.

Mary Ann Haas of Kiln was maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Chastity Breland of Picayune; Dara Seal of Chalmette, La. and Dinah Jenkins of

She carried a cascade of white silk magnolias and stephanotis accented with English ivy and magnolia leaves and tied with white lace. She also carried a white Irish linen and lace handkerchief which belonged to her great-great aunt, the late Mrs. George (Nannie) Yeager of Pascagoula, and a white, lace-covered Bible.

Cindy Gasaway of Mobile, Ala., served as maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Billie Jo Hindeland of Diamondhead and Gina Seymour of Bay St. Louis, sister of the groom. Julie Sellier of Delisle, godchild of the groom, was flower girl and Aaron Ladner of Pascagoula, cousin of the groom, was ring bearer.

Mr. Seymour served as best man to his son. Groomsmen were Jackey Burrell, brother of the bride, and Will Seymour, brother of the groom.

Ushers were Gary Sotak of Bay St. Louis, cousin of the groom; Mike Fitzgerald of Mobile; David Favre

Douglas-Moran

Covington, La., cousins of the groom; Lisa Haas and Adrienne Drake, both of Kiln, and Bridget Cuevas of Clermont Harbor.

The attendants were identically attired in mauve taffeta gowns in an antebellum style with ruffled portrait neckline, fitted waist sashed with burgundy satin ribbons. Burgundy satin bows marked pick-ups on the full skirt, revealing a burgundy flounce ruffle.

They carried hand bouquets of mauve silk poppies, burgundy lilies and mauve moire ribbons.

Flower girl was Kate Moran of Bay St. Louis, niece of the bride. She carried a basket of mauve and burgundy flowers.

Rodney Lacoste of Kiln, cousin of the groom, was best man.

Groomsmen were Donnie Seal, brother of the groom, and Tony Crosby, both of Picayune; Tim Moran, brother of the bride, and Roger Lacoste, cousin of the groom, and Douglas Ladner, all of Bay St. Louis.

Ushers were James Ward of Bay St. Louis, uncle of the bride, and Buddy Seal of Chalmette, uncle of the groom. Jason Sick of Bay St. Louis was ring bearer.

Ms. Moran chose for her daughter's wedding a candlelight crepe dress with dropped waist and accordion pleated skirt. The groom's mother chose a pink taffeta dress with bolero jacket.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall in Bay St. Louis. Assisting were na Guidry of Picayune; Shirley Cox of Waveland; Betty Arnold of Pearl River; Leonard Moran and Myrtle Moran of Kenner; and Bunn Ladner of Bay St. Louis.

United Methodist Church schedules 1988 conference

The Mississippi Conference of the United Methodist Church has scheduled their 1988 Conference at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum and Convention Center June 5-8, 1988.

"This is the first year for this group to meet in the building," said Bill Holmes, executive director of the Mississippi Coast Coliseum and Convention Center. The conference has previously met in the Northern part of the state.

This year's meeting will be in Natchez.

According to Holmes, there will be more than 1,000 delegates and their families coming from all over the state.

"This is a good example of the loyalty some of our Mississippi associations have in keeping their groups in-state," Holmes said. "We certainly appreciate the Mississippi groups meeting on the Coast. We want to show them how hard the facility and community will work to make their meetings a tremendous success."

Rev. Clint Gill, a Gulf Coast member of the United Methodist Church, said that due to the growth of the association, there was a need to use the convention center.

"The Mississippi Coast Coliseum and Convention Center will provide the perfect setting for the conference," Gill said. "This facility is such a drawing card for convention groups." Gill also said that the beaches, hotels and people make the Coast an attractive meeting place.

Hair growth drug more effective for women

NEW ORLEANS—The first drug shown to grow hair on bald men may produce even better results for women in a new study to begin this summer at the Ochsner Medical Institutions in New Orleans.

Ochsner is one of only 11 medical institutions in the U.S. conducting the test and is the only testing site in the Gulf South region.

The drug, minoxidil, introduced twelve years ago in tablet form to treat high blood pressure, and later discovered to promote hair growth as a side effect, is expected to substantially decrease hair loss in women, according to Dr. Robert Rietschel, a dermatologist at Ochsner Clinic who was involved in an earlier minoxidil study on balding men.

Rietschel says women may fare better because their pattern of hair loss is different from men.

"Women don't usually start receding in a nice neat pattern as do men. Generally, their hair becomes finer and grows shorter, and is more likely to undergo general thinning. Men, on the other hand, have scalps that are slick, and lack a certain amount of hair needed for a rapid drug treatment response," he stated.

In women, minoxidil may make hair strands plumper, healthier and grow longer. As Rietschel puts it, the drug may prolong the "active growth phase" of hair that is already present.

During the eight-month test, 330 women nationwide will apply a liquid form of the drug to their scalps twice a day. The women who will be studied must have dark (undyed) hair, be on no hormones, birth control pills or blood pressure treatment.

They will have extensive examinations and laboratory tests from start to finish. Ochsner investigators will send monthly hair samples to a central lab for computer-imaging, analysis and measurements. After 32 weeks, data will be gathered at all the testing centers and evaluated.

In 1985, Rietschel was one of only 27 investigators nationwide to test a group of men with a liquid form of minoxidil which could be applied directly to the skin. The results were encouraging.

About 20 percent of the men's group had grown hair long enough to cut or to comb within a year. The majority, 102 of the 150, had enough hair growth to encourage its use for another year. At the end of the second year, 89 of the 150 were still enthusiastic about the use of the drug and continued to use it daily.

Hancock Travel sold to Phillips

Hancock Bank has sold its subsidiary Hancock Travel Agency to Phillips Colleges, Inc. of Gulfport. The action becomes official Monday.

The purchase represents a continuing drive to diversify into "service-oriented business" areas, noted Gerald Phillips, chairman of the board of Phillips Colleges.

"We are continuing the search into other business areas that would complement our company as we diversify and expand," Phillips said. The purchase of Hancock Travel, described by Phillips as the largest and most successful agency on the Coast, serves several company purposes, among them:

—Some Phillips colleges offer courses for those interested in working as airline reservation clerks.

—The company's corporate travel needs have grown as it has acquired more properties.

—Hancock Travel makes for a wise purchase from strictly a business standpoint.

"But the major interest was that we believe in the travel and hospitality industry," Phillips said, "and we plan to significantly enlarge Hancock Travel in the next few years."

"There has been no personnel changes," he continued. "We have assured Hancock Travel employees of continuity and things like that."

Phillips who declined to reveal the price tag the agency brought, said it would retain the Hancock name.

Consumer Update

By Janet K. Lukens
Coast Consumer Management
Center

The loudest sound next to the hum of the air conditioner is the roar of dismay when the electric bill arrives. For a bit more "peace and quiet" around your home this summer, we offer the following suggestions:

1. Set your thermostat at the highest comfortable setting, usually about 78 degrees or higher; the lower the setting, the more energy required to operate the unit.

2. Close shades, blinds, draperies, etc. on unshaded glass areas. Such devices can reduce heat gain through windows as much as 50 percent.

3. Check your attic for adequate ventilation. Otherwise, excess heat builds up and makes your cooling system work harder than necessary.

4. Use major heat-producing appliances during the cooler hours of the day, in the morning or at night. This will help reduce the cooling load during the hottest part of the day (usually between 12 noon and 3 p.m. in this area). Cooling equipment is less efficient when the outdoor temperature is high.

5. Turn kitchen and bathroom exhaust fans off after they remove moisture and odor from the room.

6. Keep shrubbery and greenery trimmed away from the cooling unit.

7. Don't set the thermostat at a colder setting than normal when you turn your air conditioner on. It will not cool faster but will cool to a lower temperature than you need and use more energy.

8. Set the fan speed on high except in very humid weather. When it's humid, set the fan speed at low; you'll get less cooling, but more moisture will be removed from the air.

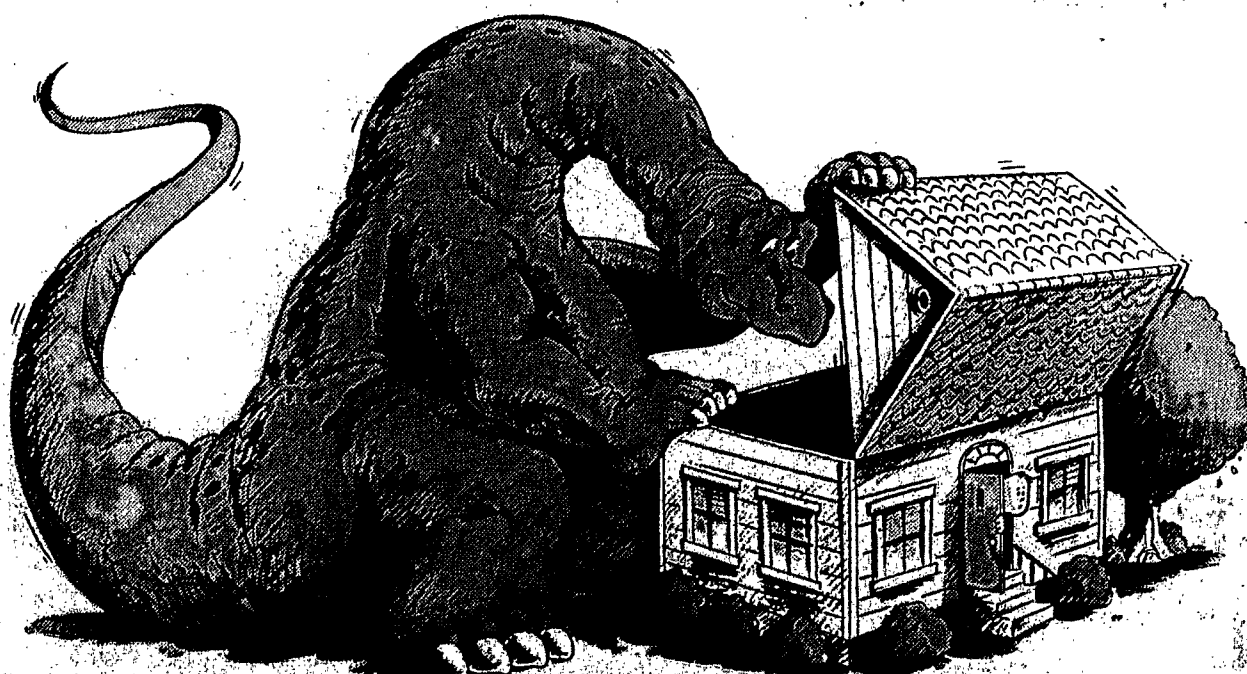

9. Clean or replace air-conditioning filters at least once a month. When the filter is dirty, the fan has to run longer to move the same amount of air, and this takes more electricity.

10. Turn off your window air-conditioners when you leave a room for several hours. You'll use less energy cooling the room down later than if you had left the unit running.

11. Consider using a fan with your window air-conditioner to spread the cooled air farther without greatly increasing your power use.

To further increase your savings on energy consumption, call the Coast Consumer Management Center at 388-4710 for two publications, "Summer Energy Savings - Made in the Shade" and "Stop Your Dollar Leaks."

It's Hard To Live Comfortably With Dinosaurs.

Replace Your Old Air Conditioner And Gas Furnace With The Electric Heat Pump.

Having a dinosaur of an old air conditioning unit outside and a prehistoric gas furnace inside can be very uncomfortable. It's also sending your energy bills through the roof. You should cool your home this summer with a high-efficiency electric heat pump. It provides a constant, even cooling in your home, unlike drafter stop-and-go air conditioners. Heat pumps are also quieter, more economical and heat homes in winter.

So ditch those dinosaurs. Replace them with the modern, energy-efficient electric heat pump.

It Cools. It Heats. It Saves.
